

"Human Skeleton" Was Dead Horse

REVIVES STORY OF LOST
REPORTER

The report last week of the body of a man found by Alfred Galloway, a Beaver Creek farmer, apparently proved to be a false alarm. It seems that Galloway discovered a small cross erected on the southern part of the Military reservation. It naturally aroused his curiosity and investigation revealed a "head of hair" and bones beneath.

The matter was reported to Sheriff Bennett and further investigation revealed that the body was that of a dead horse. Just how the cross came to be erected is only a conjecture and is figured that at the time the horse was buried that some doughboy erected the cross over the grave of the animal.

Galloway maintains, however, that the place he located the second time, with the Sheriff, isn't the place where he located the "body." He wasn't able, he claims, to locate the original grave the second time, and still claims that his first discovery was the grave of a human being. Sheriff Bennett says he searched the region thoroughly and the horse grave, with the cross, was the only grave he was able to find. He intends to continue the search.

The story of the finding of the dead body reached the outside press before the facts were known. This resulted in the publication in the Bay City Daily Times of a resume of the mysterious disappearance of a former Grayling citizen—John Hannes—in 1907. The account is very interesting and we are glad to republish it in the Avalanche. It reads as follows:

Grayling, April 15.—The finding of a human skeleton Saturday by Alfred Galloway, Crawford county farmer, in a woods near Grayling, may be the means of solving a mystery of 28 years' standing.

John Hannes, former St. Louis, Mo., newspaperman, who had taken up a homestead on Portage Lake (Lake Margrethe) disappeared in 1907 leaving no trace.

Mr. Hannes, who had been sent by his paper, the St. Louis Post Dispatch, to cover the copper strike at Calumet, was taken off the train at Grayling ill with a recurring tropical fever contracted while on correspondent's duty in Cuba during the Spanish American war. He was ill for several weeks and during a period of convalescence made a practice of driving through the country surrounding Grayling. During one of these drives he made up his mind to take up a homestead.

Cabin Used for Target Practice. The land he took up on the lake is now a part of the military reservation utilized by the artillery for a firing range, and the cabin he built after spending the first year in an old logging cabin was used by the artillery for target practice until the range was completed.

After filing his claim, Hannes made plans to marry a fellow-worker on the newspaper. They met in Saginaw and were married in Roscommon. The following year a son, Donald, was born in the new cabin which Mr. Hannes had built during "off days" while working as reporter and typesetter on the Crawford County Avalanche and farming his homestead. Later with the backing of the late Marius Hanson and Hal Davis, a New York actor who summered at the lake, Hannes started a ranch for the raising of prize chickens. Two cows and a driving horse comprised the remainder of his entire livestock.

Fifteen months after the birth of Donald, a daughter, Dorothy, was born in the T. Hanson cottage where the family had gone for the winter to be near Grayling.

Homesteading in northern Michigan was an arduous task but Hannes managed to find time to plan and help construct with R. W. Brink, then of Grayling, the Farmers' Line Telephone system running, at that time, from Grayling to Roscommon.

He managed to eke out an existence on his homestead, meanwhile during the five-year period demanded by the government, and it was on the day that he received notice that his claim had "proved up" that he disappeared.

Had Planned Celebration. The Hannes family had planned a celebration in Saginaw for this occasion and after his business trip to Grayling to get the claim notice, Hannes was to return home to pick up his wife and children and drive to Roscommon where they were to entrain for Saginaw.

From the time that he left Grayling to the present date nothing has ever been heard of him. His horse was found two days later, unhitched from the buggy and tied to a rack in front of the Price store in Roscommon.

Mrs. Hannes remained at the cabin with her two children during the winter always hopeful of his return and spent hours tramping the hills in search for her husband. Because of illness she was forced to return to her family in St. Louis where she died two years later.

Mr. Hannes was popular among Grayling citizens for his ability to tell stories and often entertained them with experiences while working for the New York World, before his employment in St. Louis. He was 45 years old at the time of his disappearance, about five feet eight in height, had sandy colored hair, and wore a full sized mustache, popular at that time.

He always wore a dull gold ring of peculiar oriental design and when last seen was carrying a shotgun.

Still Insists It Was Human Skeleton.

"The Bay City paper had such a big story about me being scared. I did not phone the sheriff's office until Saturday and I made the discovery at six o'clock Friday night. I was lost myself and when I found where I was I had lost track of the grave. But I

Kiwanians Hear Merton Wright

TELLS PLAN OF GOVERNMENT
LAND BUYING

Merton Wright, director of the group of men who have been in the county for several months purchasing sub-marginal lands for the government, was the guest speaker at the Kiwanis club Wednesday. Mr. Wright charged the Government in encouraging the use of the woodsman's axe and other destructive implements by which most of our natural resources were destroyed.

Statistics proved that the relief load being carried by the people was high in the poorer agricultural regions, and low in the better lands. Thus the government has been purchasing some of these poorer lands and transferring their owners to more fertile regions. The lands thus secured are being placed under administration for game preserves and public parks. About one-third of these lands that are purchased are inoperative. In many cases where the owners are advanced in age they are permitted to remain upon the land without rental cost as long as they care to remain there.

The speaker explained the difference between the farmer who is capable and makes a success of farming and the one who is a poor farmer and could not be successful on any farm. This first group is provided with good lands and better opportunity, while the latter is placed on small 10- to 15-acre farms and in addition be provided with conservation labor. It is the endeavor of the Government to take the farmer who is just hanging on to provide him with opportunity to make good. This program that is being carried out promises to be of great benefit to Grayling and the conservation effort is sure to result in greater and better tourist trade.

While the purchase by the government of these lands remove them from the tax rolls, experience shows that most of the lands were delinquent and probably never would pay taxes. The payment of delinquent tax is required before the lands will be accepted by the government thus bringing large sums into the treasuries of the units in which the lands lie. This in the aggregate will probably bring more money to the community funds than the lands would if these delinquent taxes were not paid.

Mr. Wright mentioned the coming plan of "land zoning" and agreed that at some future time he would be glad to explain fully this zoning ordinance.

There was a very good attendance of members and guests out to hear the speaker.

The Avalanche acknowledges a copy of "Through The Key Hole," a typewritten publication issued by the Sophomore class of 1935 of Grayling High. The No. 1 copy of Volume 1 is attractive in editorial comment, news features on athletic activities and school social affairs, personal mention, school humor and cartoons.

We understand that six copies were prepared. It meant a lot of real effort on the part of those members of the 1935 Sophomore class who contributed to its pages. The articles are well and interestingly written. The editorial staff is as follows:

Shoppenagons Inn Newly Decorated

FLOORS SANDED, WALLS RE-DECORATED.

For the past several weeks Joe Fournier has been busy sanding and revarnishing the rooms of Shoppenagons Inn until now every room is spic and span and "clean as a hound's tooth," using this slang phrase that means so much. And it is exactly that for there isn't a room in the hotel that isn't as fresh and clean as it was when new. And the lobby, dining room and grill have had the extra services of Waldemar Jensen whose decorative work is of the highest order.

Mrs. Cassidy and her assistant, Roy Trudgen, are to be congratulated for their enterprise in keeping the Inn up to a standard that is seldom reached in cities of the size of Grayling. Nowhere in the north is there a hotel that equals the Inn for comfort and service. This comfortable and pleasant hostelry is known to the travelling public and tourists who frequent this part of the state and enjoys a fine patronage. Good rooms, good beds, good food, cleanliness and friendly service has gained for the Inn an enviable reputation.

Legion Jottings

The Bugle & Drum Corps had another drill at the school gym last Monday evening, nearly all being present and a real workout was accomplished.

The Corps regrets that their three-act comedy drama entitled "The Poor Married Man" has to be postponed from April 26 until sometime later on account of several of the cast not being able to participate owing to illness, and other things.

As we announced to the people of this city, the date for the Homecoming is all set for July 14 to 21 inclusive, and the committee on this great event is sending out announcement notices this week and preparing their plans and programs. Already we have had several inquiries as to the exact dates so from far and near our Legion Jottings are read. If you don't read them, it is no fault of our Corps, as we have each week a column devoted to our activities through the courtesy of our local editor. Everyone should show their appreciation by taking your local paper and "boosting" it.

The American Legion Bugle & Drum Corps have an invitation to go to West Branch May 5th for the Trout Festival held there May 3-5. Thanks! We might be there. You never can tell.

The committee on the Grand Ball to be held at Johnson's Rustic Dance Palace, Houghton Lake, near Prudenville, have their advertising out this week. This dance hall is the loveliest and most beautiful in all Michigan and this ball promises to be a date that no one will want to miss. The music is furnished by the great 10-piece orchestra "Elmer's Hot Shots". This party is not a common affair and the Corps is being put to a heavy expense so they need the support of the Grayling people as well as the people from the rest of Northern Michigan. If you don't have a good time it will be because you don't attend.

Oh, say, by the way comrades, especially the ones who are always going to join the Legion, what's the delay? When our Bugle and Drum Corps marches down the street, some of you buddies will wish you were in it.

Comrade Johnson returned Thursday from Lansing where he was called on business. Glad to have him back to horn in; we mean get his horn operating.

The Auxiliary will hold their regular social meeting at the hall Tuesday evening. They have added four new members since the first of the year, Mrs. Victor Peterson, Gaylord, Mrs. Charles Tinker, Mrs. Earl Woods and Mrs. Carlton Wythe.

Children are the best assets of any community; why not develop them fully.

Our own idea is that the country can afford some inflation but we are against running wild.

The grounds will be completely electrified; new boats will be added, with motors and the grounds will be equipped with every sanitary feature to rate it a class A camp.

Dr. and Mrs. VanVleck have three daughters Betty, Doris and Sue, and the family will be coming here soon for the summer. The Doctor is an out-door enthusiast and is president of the Fish and Game Club of his home city and is known as a leader in the conservation of natural resources.

Masons Present Life Memberships

FRANK DECKROW AND JAMES HARTWICK 40 YEAR MASONS

It was a very pleasant event at Masonic Temple Wednesday night when Grayling Lodge No. 356 presented life membership certificates to Frank Deckrow of Grayling and James Hartwick of Detroit.

Each of these men have been members of the Masonic order for over forty years. Mr. Deckrow joined Grayling lodge in 1893 and Mr. Hartwick in 1894.

A special meeting of the lodge was held for the occasion. Past Master Carl Mickelson of Mason gave the presentation address. He complimented these members for their long years of Masonic fidelity and gave some reminiscences of some of their services to the order.

About 50 members in attendance. After the ceremonies the members and guests enjoyed a fine luncheon. T. P. Peterson acted as master of ceremonies and a number of members responded with interesting and appropriate talks. Lars Nelson and Carl Mickelson are next in line to receive the much coveted life-membership honors.

William Goinick, master of Roscommon lodge was a guest for the evening.

ELDORADO NUGGETS

Stevens Farm Home Burned.

Quite an exciting time was experienced in this neighborhood last Thursday night, April 11th, when the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Stevens, burned to the ground with practically all its contents. Mr. and Mrs. Stevens were both away at the time of the fire. Mrs. Stevens having been called to Royal Oak by the death of her mother, Mrs. George Potts. The place was in charge of Louis Ireland, who was attempting to build a fire in the sitting room stove where there had been no fire since the previous evening, taking the kerosene can, or what appeared to be such, poured a small amount of the contents into the stove. He set the can down at some distance from the stove and lighted the fire. There was an explosion and the flaming contents of the can were scattered about over the room and ignited his clothing. Fortunately, he escaped with only minor burns. After doing all he could to extinguish the fire, he went to the nearest neighbor's and called for help. By the time the help arrived, the fire had made such progress that it was possible to save only a few things. It is quite a serious loss as there is no insurance. The house was one of the old landmarks of the county, built in 1881 by George Funnish, later becoming the Eldorado Post Office under the ownership of James F. Crane. Owing to the direction of the wind and slight rain, none of the out-buildings were burned. Mr. and Mrs. Stevens were expected home Tuesday from Highland Park, where his mother resides. It is expected they will rebuild their home.

Mrs. Morton Kline and daughters, Helen and Elizabeth, returned Sunday from a trip through western and southern Michigan, having visited friends at Greenville, Redding, Tecumseh and Piquette. They reported a very pleasant trip, but that they did not find Spring anywhere along their journey.

Council Protests Electric Rate

City Engineer C. A. Miller and Calvin Church were in Lansing Tuesday where the former appeared before the State Public Utilities commission to represent the Village council in its protest against what they believe to be excessive electric rates charged by the Michigan Public Service Co. here in Grayling.

Mr. Miller upon request of the Council, filed a written report of the result of his investigation of light and power rates as applied to Grayling compared with other cities of similar size. Out of the rates paid in 10 cities, Grayling's rate was the highest of them all, according to Mr. Miller. It was admitted by a representative of the Power company that there was a loss of 30% energy in its distribution system, which percentage is more than double what might naturally be expected. This excessive loss the Company is piling upon their patrons, besides, as some of their local stockholders admit, good dividends are being paid.

Mr. Miller prepared comparative charts showing the variation in electric rates here and in other cities. These tell a story that cannot be misunderstood. He feels, so that residences having more than five rooms are getting a room rimming by the "per kilowatt per room" schedule of rates. Whether or not our application for a more fair and equitable electric rate will be acted upon depends now upon the attitude of the State commission. They have the power to ask the Company to lower their rates if they so desire.

Frank Malloy Passed Away

Following an illness of several months duration Frank Malloy passed away at his home at 4:30 o'clock Monday morning. Besides dealing with local physicians early last fall on their advice he went to University Hospital, Ann Arbor, where he submitted to an operation and although he seemed better for a time he had been failing rapidly the past couple of months.

Mr. Malloy was born in Wingham, Canada, May 13, 1882 and came to Michigan with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Malloy when he was seven years old. After attending school he engaged in farming and for the past twelve years had worked as car repairer for the Michigan Central. However he found it necessary to give up his labors last June when his health became bad.

Sept. 14, 1910 he was united in marriage to Jeanette Streenebrecher, who with four children Alice, Clifford, Marie and Francis survive. Also his parents, the father who makes his home in Detroit and his mother, who resides here, and four brothers, John of Grayling, Tom of Hibbing, Minn., Lawrence and Patrick of Detroit, and Michael of Lansing.

Mr. Malloy was a member of the local K. of C. council and a member of the church board of St. Mary's church. Funeral services were held at St. Mary's church yesterday morning. Rev. J. L. Culligan officiating. Interment was in Elmwood cemetery. The Malloy family have many friends who extend sympathy to them in their bereavement.

Recreational Notes

The Businessmen won their second straight game in the playoff to win the city championship. It was a very close game, the final score being 3-1. Wheeler and Brown were the battery for the Businessmen and Gothro, May and Thompson worked for the Wildcats.

Gothro sprained his ankle in the eighth inning and May took up the mound duties.

Tuesday evening of this week the Chiefs and Masons played for 3rd place. The Chiefs were not up to form and took a trimming, 17-3.

If the weatherman gives us the break we expect to be playing a tie in another week. There will be a meeting at the school Thursday evening to discuss the summer schedule and rules. Anyone wishing to organize a team please be present.

These indoor games have been enjoyed by many throughout the winter. We expect some exciting games this summer. Come out and see them. Everyone welcome. We expect a varied recreational program for young and old this summer. Announcements will be made at a later date.

Elmer Fenton.

Gordon Pond Is 1935 Billiard Champ

EXCITING TOURNEY PLAYED LAST WEEK

The second annual billiard tournament began Tuesday evening of last week at 7:45 at the Recreation Parlor.

In the opening game Hurl Deckrow came from behind to win from Lloyd Jennings, 50-41. Jennings led most of the way but after Deckrow managed to tie the count Jennings cracked under the pressure.

The second game was a thriller with it being anyone's game until the last shot was made. At the end of the affair Bill Hunter led his opponent, Wilson Gierke, by the slim margin of three points, the final score being 50-47. Gierke staged a rally after Hunter had made 35 points and with consistent runs of 4- and 5's managed to pass Hunter, but "Dame Fortune" failed to stay with him and he lost a number of shots by fractions of an inch.

The third game saw the highest run of the first three games, with Gordon Pond running 7. Ernie Olson was scheduled to play in this game but failed to show up at the proper time so a substitution was necessary. Ora Ingalls led the bill. Pond went about the business on hand like a veteran and won easily, 50 to 40.

The fourth game was a scheduled bout between Art May and Frank Schmidt. It was again necessary to call on a substitute in the person of Lloyd Gierke, a youngster making his debut. Art May had some difficulty in getting started but came thru in a real finish that left the younger Gierke on the extremely short end of the count, 50 to 24. The score was tied at 21-all and it was after this Art found his eye.

In the fifth game Kenneth Gothro defeated Howard Schmidt to the tune of 50 to 39. In the first half it was a close game, with the lead changing many times. Gothro finally pulled away and his lead was never threatened.

The final stanza saw the winner and runner-up of the previous tournament paired and plenty of action predominated. Ted Callahan started off by running 4-4-3-3, and led until he had passed the 10 mark. Jimmie Post was trailing by six points but the high run of the evening, "9", put him 3 in the lead, a lead which he never relinquished. The final score was 50 to 46.

Second Night. The second night of the Billiard Tournament saw the major upset of either this, or the previous tournament, with Gordon Pond defeating James Post 76 to 62. Willie Hoppe would have been busy to have defeated the local champion on this occasion.

Art May had little difficulty in winning from Bill Hunter, 75 to 60. May led all the way and with consistent runs of 4's managed to keep ahead although Bill had a "9" for the high run of the evening.

Gothro found the competition a little tougher in the semi-finals than it was on the previous evening, and encountered plenty of trouble while defeating Hurl Deckrow 74 to 74. Deckrow put on a last minute rally that had the barber's son in a sweat.

The third night saw Gordon Pond and Art May scheduled to play the opener, with Kenneth Gothro playing the winner. After seeing Gordon Pond's exhibition of how billiards should be played, the previous night, Art May forfeited his game.

Although Kenneth Gothro played exceptional billiards in his first two games, he too felt that Pond was too much for him.

Gordon Pond, the present champion, had no sooner perched himself on the throne when he was challenged by Jimmie Post to play three exhibition games to be known as the champion's championship. These games are to be played April 23rd.

Prime Ministers of Three Nations Confer at Stresa—President Roosevelt, Busy With Work Relief Program, Prods Congress.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
© Western Newspaper Union

SIX of Europe's foremost statesmen, with experts and secretaries, solemnly considered peace plans and security pacts on Isola Bella, a lovely little island in Lake Maggiore off Stresa, Italy. The conference was momentous, but it was of an "exploratory" nature, and no definite results were expected. Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon, representing Great Britain, were willing to carry out that nation's military obligations under the Locarno treaty but balked at further commitment in continental affairs.

Anyhow, they had promised to enter into no new agreements without the consent of parliament, which cannot be consulted until after the Easter holidays. Premier Flandin and Foreign Minister Laval of France sought to persuade England to line up with France and Russia rather than with Germany, and they presented as one argument a new mutual assistance pact they had just signed with Russia. Premier Mussolini, solemn and pessimistic, handled matters for Italy with the help of Fulvio Suvich, undersecretary of foreign affairs. He had already warned the world that the issue of war or peace probably could not be settled at Stresa.

Of course, the chief question was the attitude of other nations toward the constantly growing Pan-Germanism of the reich under Hitler, and the first concrete problem taken up was France's appeal to the League of Nations against Germany's repudiation of the military clauses of the Versailles treaty. Mussolini and MacDonald were inclined to accept Hitler's rearmament if there could be an agreement against further military expansion, but Flandin stood in opposition. The Italians urged a three-power alliance for protection against Germany, but this was rejected and France was uncertain. All three nations rather favored the rearmament of Austria, Bulgaria and Hungary, and the Danube pact which Italy especially has been promoting.

MUSSOLINI'S pessimistic frame of mind was illustrated by an announcement in his newspaper, Popolo d'Italia, that Italy would keep 600,000 men under arms "until the horizon is well cleared, and give them all modern weapons." Both the Italians and the French are convinced that Germany is maliciously stirring up the troubles that confront them in northern Africa with the purpose of weakening their position in Europe. This matter was discussed privately by some of the participants in the Stresa meeting.

THE new mutual assistance agreement reached by France and Russia was at first supposed to be merely an agreement on sanctions to be taken against an aggressor once the latter has been determined by the League of Nations. But Paris correspondents assert that it is in effect a military alliance such as Russia had been urging on France and that in certain cases the signatories will determine for themselves who is the aggressor without waiting for word from Geneva. The agreement is, of course, directed primarily against Germany. It is believed in Paris that Russia will soon conclude similar alliance with Czechoslovakia and the Baltic states, thus completing a steel ring around Germany's land frontiers. The agreement is still subject to alteration and final approval, and the Soviet press does not discuss it.

That Russia still seeks "to maintain and strengthen the general peace" was shown by the signing of a Russo-German trade treaty which is believed will greatly increase the volume of Russia's orders in the reich. Under this accord the Soviet will increase purchases in Germany by 200,000,000 marks (about $80,000,000), a banking consortium headed by the Deutsche Bank and Discount Gesellschaft and the Dresdner bank to grant import credits for an average term of five years. The credits will bear interest at the discount rate of the reichsbank plus 2 per cent. The Russian trade delegation is thereby enabled to pay cash for orders placed with German firms.

ANNOUNCEMENT was made by the government that it had uncovered extensive frauds in the immigration and naturalization service from 1923 to 1933, and steps were taken for the ousting of a number of employees and for criminal prosecutions. It was estimated that a ring of bribe takers and fixers had received as much as a million dollars from persons illegally entering the country. "Revelations so startling in character have come to light that investigators believe the actual extent of corruption and fraud has been but partially disclosed," said a statement issued by the Labor department after a secret investigation of alleged frauds in the New York district.

"Sums ranging up to $100 are alleged to have been paid in cases involving false witnesses or passing of an applicant who had failed in his test of knowledge of the government or his ability to speak English.

It is alleged that fees ranging from $300 to $1,200 were levied in cases involving fraudulent or altered manifest records, where it was desirable to obtain a record that would safeguard an alien from deportation or procure citizenship status by showing his legal admission at the port of New York for permanent residence."

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, deep-tanned and in good physical condition, was landed at Jacksonville, Fla., by the destroyer Faragut and started immediately for New York, to attend the funeral of his cousin, Warren Delano Robinson, after which he returned to Washington.

Aboard his special train the President read through the $4,880,000 work relief bill as it was final. Harry Hopkins passed by both houses of congress, called for pen and ink and appended his signature to the largest appropriation measure ever enacted by congress. There were some members of it agreed upon in the senate and house conference, which he did not like, but he said those who had studied it recommended its approval.

The President at once signed two allocations from the amount appropriated. The first was $125,000,000 to the administrator of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, in order that relief might not stop. The second was $30,000,000 for continuation of the emergency conservation work.

In Washington the Republicans and some others discussed with dissatisfaction the probability that Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator, would be the President's chief assistant in carrying out the vast work relief program.

IN HIS first post-vacation conference with congressional leaders, President Roosevelt disregarded their fears of a prolonged session and insisted on enactment of his legislative program. Especially he wants legislation dealing with extension of the NRA, social security, utilities holding companies, extension of federal authority over banking, ship subsidy readjustment and extension of $410,000,000 in nuisance taxes.

Later the President conferred with Senator Joe Robinson, who said both of them felt that very satisfactory progress is being made. To the correspondents Mr. Roosevelt said he hoped to have the work relief program at its peak by the middle of November, at which time 3,500,000 unemployed should be at work under its terms. He indicated this program would be carried out as far as possible by existing governmental agencies. He will seek to avoid moving workers from one area to another, and will take care of as many "white collar" workers as possible.

The social security bill finally was produced on the floor of the house of representatives. There were several blocs against it in its form as reported. These included representatives who want higher unemployment and old age payments; members from the poorer states, who want the federal government to bear the entire cost of the program, with the states relieved of any contribution; and the conservatives, who are opposed to the "government going into the insurance business" and exacting a pay roll tax during the depression.

GEN. HERMANN WILHELM GOEBBELS, the dynamic premier of Prussia and air minister of Germany, and Emmy Sonnemann, thirty-seven-year-old actress, were married in Berlin, first in the city hall and then in the evangelical cathedral, with Reichsfuehrer Hitler acting as groomsman in both ceremonies. It was a most spectacular wedding, with many famous Germans and a grand opera chorus in attendance, a triumphal procession through the crowded streets and a display of the Nazi air force.

SOCIALISTS and Catholics of Danzig combined to give Chancellor Hitler of Germany his first big setback. In the free city's parliamentary election the Nazis polled 60.6 per cent of the total vote, but failed to get the two-thirds majority of the seats that would give them complete control of parliament. Hitler and his followers had hoped Danzig would follow the lead of the Saar and return to the reich, and this may yet be the result, for the population of the city is more than 90 per cent German. But the Nazis were defeated in their attempt to lay the ground work for the suppression of all other political parties and the establishment of a dictatorship. Presumably their next step will be to vote for a change in the Free City's constitution and to ask the League of Nations, which administers the city through a commission, to permit a plebiscite on return to the reich. This was openly discussed by Paul Joseph Goebbels, German propagandist minister, during the hot campaign in Danzig carried on by the Nazis. Poland was enraged by the violent methods of the Hitlerites in the campaign and demand an apology from Berlin. The whole affair endangered the new friendship between Poland and Germany, and probably this was not mourned by the other nations of Europe.

NEW dust storms, the worst of the destructive series, swept over Kansas, Colorado, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Texas, completing the virtual ruin of the wheat crop and causing great losses and suffering among live stock. Schools and shops were closed, airplanes grounded and train and bus schedules disrupted. Some regions were being abandoned by all inhabitants.

A delegation of senators and representatives from four of the stricken states called on President Roosevelt and asked him to earmark $150,000,000 for a land program for the next two years. He did not indicate what amount would be allocated, but was said by the delegation to have given assurance that he would permit the expenditure of all the money that was necessary.

WITH the rubber workers in the tire plants of Akron, Ohio, ready to quit their jobs, the American Federation of Labor pledged itself to finance the strike, which President Green declared would be a crucial attempt to organize labor to force on industry the collective bargaining provisions of the NRA. He announced his organization would "support the rubber workers of Akron for as long a time as may be necessary."

Green definitely marked out the tire strike as a test of labor's ability to make good on the promises held out to it by the New Deal. The national labor relations board, he pointed out, had ordered the big tire companies, Goodyear, Goodyear, and Firestone, to allow their workers to elect representatives for collective bargaining. The companies have refused and labor now takes into its own hands the enforcement of the NLRB decision, Green argued.

Tire manufacturers, on the other side, recognize the threatened strike as a key move in the New Deal program for regimentation of labor and industry and are fighting back. Fire stone expected to go before the District of Columbia Supreme court and ask a permanent injunction against the NLRB and NRA meddling in its labor situation.

POSTMASTER GENERAL JAMES A. FARLEY went to New York to study the political and legislative situation there, and it was declared by local Democratic leaders that he would retire from the cabinet soon after the adjournment of congress. Mr. Farley neither affirmed nor denied the story.

He has been bitterly attacked for retaining his cabinet post and at the same time continuing as chairman of the Democratic national committee and of the New York Democratic committee, despite the edict of the President against such double holding. Mr. Roosevelt wants Mr. Farley to remain head of the national committee and to conduct his campaign for reelection, so he will give up his post office job; but he did not wish to resign while still under fire from Huey Long and others.

Washington Notes And Comments

(By Congressman Roy C. Woodruff, Tenth Michigan District)

Mention was made in my last week's communication of the Public Works relief Bill recently signed by the President giving him practically unlimited authority to spend four billion eight hundred and eighty million dollars for work relief projects of various kinds, and for direct relief.

It is charged by Republican members of the Appropriation Committee and not denied by the Democrats that there are still unexpended several billion dollars appropriated for various projects in the original Public Works and later measures of similar import. Just what justification there can be in the appropriation of the above-mentioned stupendous sum in the face of these unexpended balances is more than many of us, both Republican and Democrat, can see. In all the history of the country, there has never been another such orgy of spending except during the World War.

An investigation of the costs of our previous wars discloses the fact that four years of the Civil War were fought under the direction of President Lincoln at an expense of less than three and a half billion dollars. Add to this the expense of the War of 1812, the War with Mexico and the war with Spain, and the expenditures would still be less than the $4,880,000,000 just turned over to the President to be expended during the coming year. And we are not at war with any nation.

An interesting study of the expenditures of all past National Administrations conducted by David Lawrence of the United States News shows that from the time George Washington took his first oath of office as President of the United States in 1789 until the last dollar of President Taft's last budget was spent on June 30, 1913, the total cost of running Uncle Sam's Government was $24,521,845,000. Remember, this included all the expenses of the War of 1812, the Mexican War, the Civil War, and the Spanish War, as well as all ordinary and extraordinary expenses of the government. As these figures are based upon official records of the U. S. Treasury Department, they are indisputable.

Now watch what has taken place under the new deal Administration now in power. The records of expenditures for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1934, disclose them to have been $7,105,059,000. For the fiscal year ending the same date, 1935, it is estimated—and of course these estimates are based upon appropriations made by Congress—that the expenditures will be $8,520,414,000, or a total for the three years of $24,206,533,000, which is just $315,312,000 less than was expended by all of the National Administrations beginning with George Washington, up to and including that of President Taft, covering a period of 124 years of our national life.

In discussing this spending orgy recently in the Senate, Senator Byrd, Democrat of Virginia, in breaking these figures down into more understandable terms, showed that the expenditures of the Federal Government amount to $13,000 for every minute of the day and night, and of that $13,000 the Senator estimates that about $7,000 is being added to the public debt each minute, all to be paid by the present and future generations.

That much concern is being felt by loyal Democratic members of the House and Senate is exemplified by the statement of Senator Tydings of Maryland, one of the finest, ablest, most serious minded members of that body; a man with a splendid record with a combat division overseas during the World War, when in a speech the other day in the Senate he stated:

"What is the Democratic Party now doing? I am not seeking to hurt the Democrats; but I believe the time has come to raise our voices in warning, for before another year shall have gone by there may not be the large Democratic majority here and in other places which we have enjoyed. We cannot go on running the Government on hot air, on money pulled down from the heavens which the taxpayers will have to pay back. We cannot continue on the philosophy of scarcity, of producing less and less and expecting to employ more and more people. We can no longer do that with any degree of success, because the less work there is, the less we produce, the less employment there is. Up to this time the whole philosophy of the Administration, in my judgment, has been to produce less and to increase, rather than to decrease the army of the unemployed."

Warm Weather Helps Warm weather causes a higher rate of metabolism and greater consumption of body fuel. This is why, says an authority at Tulane university, the Dixie girls have a more sylvanish contour than their northern cousins.

Increase Purchase
Christmas Seals

Crawford county's contribution to the 1934 sale of tuberculosis Christmas Seals increased from $76.97 in 1933 to $103.04 the Michigan Tuberculosis Association announced today.

Sale of the tuberculosis Christmas Seals throughout the state by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association and its affiliated societies increased about ten percent in 1934 it was said.

"The entire sale, to date, has realized contributions totaling $131,113.06," Dr. Bruce H. Douglas, president, stated. "This is $13,120.26 higher than the total figure of last year, even though all sales have not yet been finally recorded."

"That tuberculosis Christmas Seals can be sent out in the mails and that money, in the great majority of cases will be returned for them is, to me, a splendid commentary on American honesty and integrity," he declared.

Work on next year's sale of tuberculosis Christmas Seals has already started with the ordering of supplies. The seal to be sold next Christmas shows a little girl of the period of 1863, mailing a letter at an old-fashioned post-box. It commemorates the first delivery of mail by a government carrier, when the federal government abandoned the old system of giving private concerns contracts to deliver letters and established its own system.

The first job of 1934's seal sale has been financing the Eighth Annual Early Diagnosis Campaign of case-finding and education, now going on.

Camp News

Camp Higgins

Fourteen educational advisers on CCC work in the third and fourth forestry districts held a meeting at Camp Higgins Lake Saturday afternoon with Adviser Sam Hill of the Camp Custer district headquarters. Mr. Hill revealed that in the budget for the CCC to be submitted in July there will be provisions for a new building in each permanent company to be used for educational purposes. Steps are to be taken to further promote the educational program in all camps.

Lieut. Samuel of Pittsburgh, who came here last week to succeed Capt. E. W. Todd as chaplain for this sub-district, has been transferred to the fifth forestry district, and Chaplain Paquette of that district will come here. Lieut. Samuel is a veteran of five battles in the field hospital service, and with several veteran camps in his new district he anticipates surroundings much to his liking. Lieut. Paquette is of the Catholic clergy, and his previous visits here have already acquainted him with the conditions in the fourth district.

Officers and camp superintendents in this sub-district held a party at the AuSable club last Saturday evening. An orchestra furnished music for dancing and a buffet luncheon was served. The party served a double purpose, as a farewell for Capt. McCullough who leaves in the near future to become executive officer at Camp Custer for CCC work, and as a welcome to Capt. Nevins Young, who comes here from Fort Sheridan to succeed the present sub-district commander. Wives and lady friends also attended.

Eight more men were awarded first aid certificates at this camp the first of the week for completion of their course. They were Walter McDonald, Walter Hutton, John Ivanski, William Ray, Donald Court, Ralph Brody, Arlyn Bonney, and Allen Hughes.

Report indicate this organization will shortly receive 92 recruits as replacements for those who have been recently discharged. It is anticipated all CCC companies will shortly be brought to full strength.

Starting last week this company has been standing retreat at 5:45 p. m., except Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

LONELY C. C. C. BOY

Alone he stands, poor C.C.C. boy; Outcast, denied his share of joy. Empty pockets nowhere to go. Dressed in khaki from head to toe.

Downward he goes down the street Loudly is heard his clattering feet.

At lighted windows he stops and stares To hasten time while loafing there.

He is human, he has a heart; Of fun and life he'd like his part. Although he's tacky and pretty tough.

Treat him fair and not too rough. Cheer him up, give him a smile, Help him along all the while; For should duty call this boy will speed.

To answer mother country's need.

C.M.T.C. To Double QuotaSTART TAKING APPLICA-TIONS IN MICHIGAN TO-DAY

The federal appropriation for Citizens' Military Training Camps for 1935 will be $2,000,000—double the allotment of the last two years. This announcement was received from the War Department late yesterday by Phelps Newberry, Civilian Aide to the Secretary of War for the State of Michigan.

"The increased appropriation will more than double the number of young men who will be given healthful training and vacation," said Mr. Newberry. Aside from the training this increase is particularly important at a time when many of the young men are unemployed."

Accept Applications Today.
Michigan boys may apply at once on blanks to be obtained this morning at the Civilian Aide's office, 2161 Penobscot Building, Detroit, Michigan. Officials said it was safe to assume that all who make application within the next two weeks will win appointments.

The quota for the 6th Corps Area, embracing Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin is 3,675 men. Michigan will have 1,430.

Training in the military camps is divided into four courses, Basic Course, 17 to 24 years; Red Course, 17 to 25 years; White Course, 18 to 28 years; and Blue Course, 19 to 29 years. First year men, with a few exceptions, are enlisted in the basic course to study Infantry tactics. In the next course they may elect the branch of the service in which they wish to serve.

The camps, open July 2nd to July 31st, offer a month of healthy drill, instruction and recreation in the open under the supervision of Army officers. All expenses, covering uniforms, transportation, food and supervised sports, are paid by the government. Realizing the benefit of the training a number of Detroit firms have cooperated with the military authorities by giving employees an extra two weeks vacation to take the training.

The appropriation for the C.M.T.C. originally $2,500,000 was cut two years ago to $1,000,000. This year the House favored an appropriation of $1,000,000. This figure was raised to $2,500,000 and finally compromised at $2,000,000.

Must Have Burning Permit

"Get a burning permit." This is the injunction issued by the Department of Conservation to all persons planning to start fires in the open for the removal of brush or slash when the ground is not covered with snow.

Anyone clearing land, removing brush, grass roots and doing clean-up work is reminded that state law requires that they obtain a permit to start a fire for any of those purposes when the ground is not covered with snow. A permit may be issued by a conservation officer, fire warden or towerman and at the district headquarters offices.

During the fire hazard season burning permits are especially necessary. By means of the permits fire wardens and towermen become aware of the presence of small fires in certain parts of their territory and know that they are being watched by those who control them, as the law requires.

Persons granted permits to start fires must agree to maintain a watch of the fire and see that it is safely extinguished when they leave.

hasn't these Three
Kinds of Power

Can save up to a cupful of gasoline in 10 Minutes of Hard Pulling. Because of Super-Shell's even volatility, you can accelerate rapidly, or race your car up steep hills—on less gasoline, without wasteful knocking.

Can save up to a cupful of gasoline in One Hour of Steady Running. Every drop of Super-Shell vaporizes more completely at every engine temperature. So it saves on long runs, too.

WELCOME BYRD AND HIS MEN
Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd and his crew will soon come home from their second Antarctic expedition and will, no doubt, receive the welcome that the nation reserves for those who accomplish the extraordinary.
The scientific data collected on the latest trip is said to have proved much more valuable than that of the first expedition and the explorer will spend some time making a study of it. He seems to be in good health and is proud of the fact that he lost no life in the barren wastes of the frozen regions.
